Course content

The aim of the course is to enable students to develop knowledge of different theoretical perspectives on leadership. Furthermore, the students are to develop their ability to interrogate and take a critical position on theories of leadership. Another aim is to enable students to acquire specialised knowledge of the conditions of service organisations and the requirements of leadership caused by these conditions. The course will discuss and analyse situations and problem areas related to leadership and management roles. It provides students with broadened and specialised knowledge of the theories of organisation and leadership introduced in the previous main field course "Organising and Marketing in Service Organisations". The course includes the following components:

Component 1 and 2 (7 credits): Focus on classical (component 1) and modern (component 2) theoretical perspectives of leadership. Discussions are pursued from the point of view of the impact of the different theoretical perspectives on an understanding of the leadership phenomenon.

Component 3 (4 credits): Focus on the impact of leadership practices and theories on individuals and organisations from a diversity perspective.

Component 4 (4 credits): Focus on management and leadership in service organisations, and the special conditions of management and leadership prevailing in such activities.

Course design

The teaching includes several different forms such as lectures, guest lectures and seminars.

Compulsory participation is required in guest lectures and seminars. Students who have been unable to participate due to circumstances such as accidents or sudden illness will be offered the opportunity to compensate for or re-take compulsory components. This also applies to students who have been absent because of duties as an elected student representative.

Assessment

The assessment of the components is based on:

Component 1 (2 credits)

Content: Classical theories of leadership

Assessment: Individual written exam.

Component 2 (5 credits)

Content: Modern theories of leadership

Assessment: Seminars and individual written assignments.

Component 3 (4 credits)

Content: Leadership and diversity

Assessment: Seminars and written group assignments.

Component 4 (4 credits)

Content: Service perspectives on leadership

Assessment: Take-home exam to be completed in pairs of students.

Three opportunities for examination are offered in conjunction with the course: a first examination and two re-examinations. Two further re-examinations on the same course content are offered within a year of the end of the course. After this, further re-examination opportunities are offered but in accordance with the current course syllabus.

The examiner, in consultation with Disability Support Services, may deviate from the regular form of examination in order to provide a permanently disabled student with a form of examination equivalent to that of a student without a disability.

Subcourses that are part of this course can be found in an appendix at the end of this document.

Grades

Marking scale: Fail, Pass, Pass with distinction.

- For the grade of Pass, the student must fulfil the learning outcomes specified for the course. For the grade of Pass with Distinction, the student must also show particular theoretical awareness and analytical ability.

Component 1701 is exempted from the grading scale above. The grades awarded for this component is Pass or Fail.

For the grade of Pass, the student must have passed all components. For the grade of Pass with Distinction, the student must have been awarded this grade on two components.

At the start of the course, students are informed about the learning outcomes stated in the syllabus and about the grading scale and how it is applied on the course.
